DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

2. Claims 1 and 2 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Chen (US 6,223,959). Chen discloses a shock absorber (10) for a dimensioned shoulder strap (21) which includes a panel-like absorbing portion defined by an outer surface of the shock absorber having a plurality of protrusions (121, 122, 231, 231) arranged in a lattice pattern being filled with air, which are each independently hermetically and separately sealed, col. 2, lines 26-31 and as shown in figures 4-7. Additionally, each of the plurality of protrusions is sealed from the atmosphere and from one another as shown in figure 6. Also, the plurality of protrusions formed on a sheet (11) of the air pocket (10) being made of polyvinyl chloride/thermoplastic rubber, col. 2, lines 10-11, by heat sealing process is inherently made of a thermal polyurethane resin. Furthermore, each of the protrusions (121) is provided on a lower portion of the shock absorber as shown in figure 7.

Further, a reinforcement/connecting portion (22) is sewn at seams together with the absorbing portion, and is connected to the middle of the shoulder strap having a predetermined width, which is made of a resilient material having extensibility, col. 2, lines 30-34 that is detachably wrapped about the shoulder strap as shown in figures 4 and 6. In addition, the length of the reinforcement portion is larger than the absorbing portion as illustrated by figure 6.

Claim Rejections - 35 U.S.C. § 103

3. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

4. Claims 3 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Chen.

Chen discloses the invention as set forth in paragraph 2 above except for showing a connection portion being made of hook and loop material

With regard to claim 3, it would have been obvious to one skilled in the art to substitute a connection portion being sewn to the absorbing portion at each of the distal ends of Chen as shown in figures 4 and 9, with detachable hook and loop material, since these types of fastening means are considered equivalent in the art.

Conclusion

5. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.
